NCFA Partners with University of Toledo to Host 2025 National Championship Bowl Game at the Glass Bowl

Toledo, OH — The National Club Football Association (NCFA) is proud to announce its partnership with the University of Toledo Club Football Team to host the 2025 NCFA National Championship Bowl Game. The championship showdown will take place on Saturday, December 6, 2025, at the iconic Glass Bowl Stadium in Toledo, Ohio, with kickoff scheduled for 1:00 PM EST.

This marks a significant milestone for club football, as the Glass Bowl—known for its rich history and vibrant atmosphere—will serve as the stage for the NCFA’s premier event. The collaboration with the University of Toledo Club Football Team highlights the growing support and enthusiasm for collegiate club football across the nation.

“We’re thrilled to bring the National Championship to Toledo,” said Sandy Sanderson, NCFA President. “The Glass Bowl offers a first-class venue that reflects the passion and dedication of our student-athletes, and we’re excited to work with the University of Toledo to deliver an unforgettable experience for players, fans, and the broader community.”

Toledo Club Football General Manager [Dylan Brown] commented: "It feels like just yesterday I was establishing a club football team at the University of Toledo and setting up our first home games in the stadium as a sophomore. Flash forward five years—now a graduate student, after hosting two seasons of NCFA Playoffs—it is truly an honor and an exciting opportunity to host college football’s biggest game, the National Championship, in my fifth and final season as a student with the program I helped build from the ground up.

My goal is to do everything we can here at Toledo to promote this game throughout campus and the greater Toledo community, and to work hard behind the scenes to give it the true college football atmosphere this game deserves—more than any past regular or postseason games held here in Toledo."

The NCFA National Championship Bowl Game will feature the winner of the Great Lakes Conference Championship vs the winner of the Mid-Atlantic Conference Championship, battling for the National Title after a season of intense competition. Fans can expect a high-energy game, spirited fanfare, and a celebration of the student-athlete experience.

Tickets and event details will be available soon at collclubsports.simpletix.com.

For those unable to join the action live in person, once again, CCSM will be providing a PPV live stream of the game on their streaming platform CollClubSports.TV.
